

Being Lean is good for business

Every business has processes that generate wasteful activity, providing little or no value to your customer.

Applying Lean tools will reduce and even eliminate this waste, improving your customer experience and making your business more efficient and profitable.

The key to getting and staying Lean lies with your workforce. Cidori's Business Improvement Techniques (BIT) Lean Business apprenticeship levy programme drives cultural change from the bottom up to help your business embed Lean in the long term.

What do we offer?

Cidori runs a number of Business Improvement Techniques (BIT) Lean Business apprenticeship levy delivery programmes.

From principles and concepts through to practical implementation, we show how waste can be dramatically reduced, how customer and employee satisfaction can be significantly improved and how, via quantitative evaluation, you can enjoy genuine bottom-line improvements in quality, cost and delivery.

- minimises operating costs
- embeds values/culture
- maximises productivity
- reduces downtime
- improves work-flow
- engages teams

How does it work?

By using project-led training in Lean principles, Cidori will design a bespoke programme for you that will:

- meet your specific business needs
- be delivered to your entire workforce
- help drive cultural change, so that Lean improvements can become fully sustainable
- be planned around your business peaks on a timetable that works for you
- guarantee OFSTED Outstanding rated quality training on your site

For more information, please contact:

David Murfitt: 07930 493038 dmurfitt@cidori.co.uk
Paul Woolley: 07412 864217 pwoolley@cidori.co.uk